

Maps are made from the point of view as an airplane. We see things from ground level! Draw what you see from ground level and then picture what it would look like looking down from an airplane.

